

PACT Recognizes Technology and Healthcare Innovation and Leaders in the Philadelphia Region at 2020 Enterprise Awards Live Broadcast

September 10, 2020

Philadelphia, PA., September 9, 2020 – PACT, the Philadelphia Alliance for Capital and Technologies, celebrated the Philadelphia region’s technology and healthcare innovators and leaders tonight at the 27th Annual Enterprise Awards, which also included a sprinkling of celebrity testimonials. This live digital broadcast recognized 28 outstanding individuals and organizations through nine competitive categories, audience choice selections, and the Digital Innovation Honoree (Penn Medicine).

PACT announced in July that it was pivoting its 2020 Enterprise Awards to a free studio-based, live digital broadcast. Contributions continue to be accepted to the PACT Foundation, as the organization works to remove financial barriers to access for underrepresented entrepreneurs to PACT membership, mentorship, and programming. Support for PACT’s mission and the Philadelphia entrepreneurial ecosystem stood strong and ever present during the broadcast. The night ended with PACT’s President and CEO, Dean Miller, calling on the audience to spend some time connecting with an entrepreneur so that we can work together to build a more inclusive innovation community.

“The Enterprise Awards remain the most competitive and admired business awards in the region. While we all continue to work through challenging times, it was important that we pause to celebrate the accomplishments of these individuals and companies,” said Dianne Strunk, Vice President at PACT. “This pivot to a live digital broadcast allowed us to showcase the vitality and success of our technology and healthcare leaders to a wider audience.”
